

User types:

Ordinary user: Must login to the website so they can buy a ticket or book a hotel. Also they can view our website and decide what holidays they want to go. They can contact

Moderator: Moderates the comments and reviews left by users, to make sure all reviews are relevant and appropriate.

Administrator user: The person who can edit the site and add more stuff including offers.

Functional requirements:

Log in: The user must have their own account to login to our website.

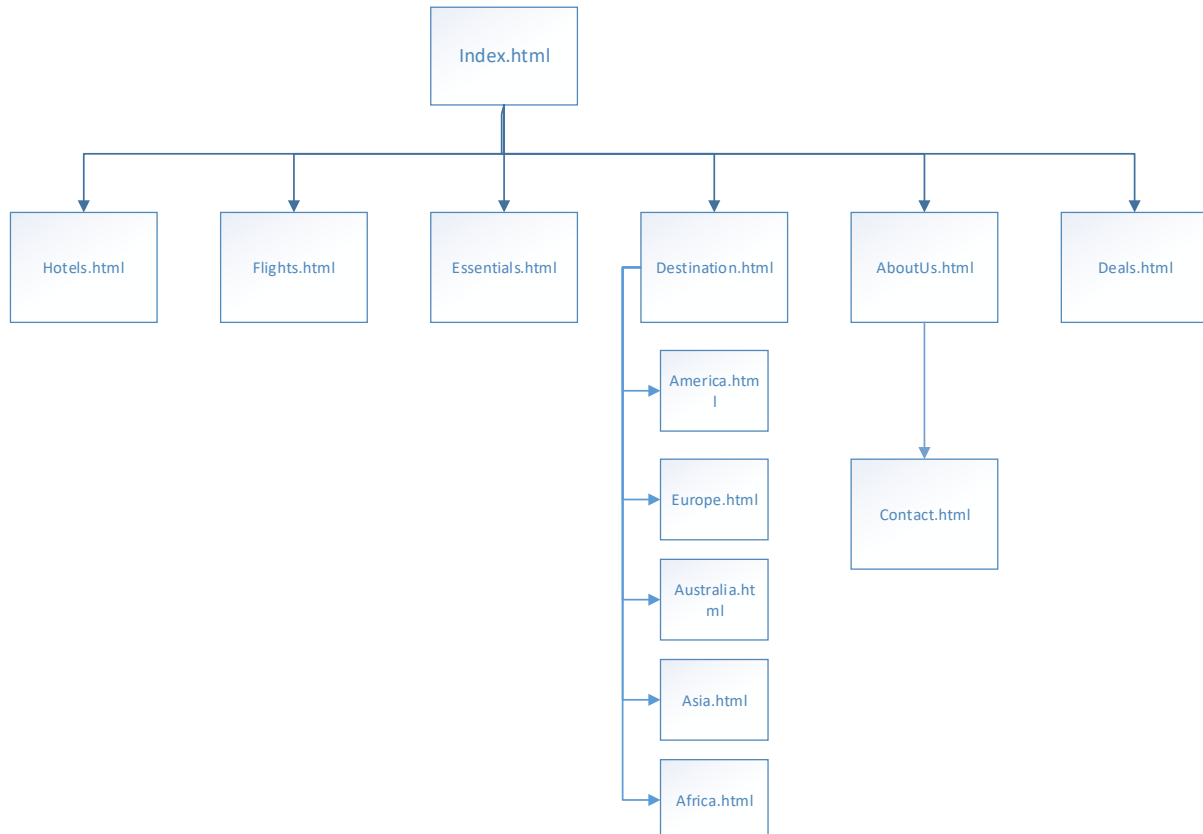

Comments: To lets the user give us a feedback after they buy tickets or book hotels from our website.

Search: To lets the user search for any destinations they want and any offers.

Contact: The user can contact our admin at any time.

Search holidays: This gives the user chose any destinations and whenever they want to go for their holidays.

Site structure diagram

Navigation element tables

Name of element	Description and links	Included in pages
Main navigation bar	Hierarchical navigation bar with the following elements: Home (target: index.html) Hotels (target: Hotels.html) Flights (target: Flights.html) Holiday Essentials (target: Essentials.html) Destinations (target: Destination.html) About Us (target: AboutUs.html) Deals (target: deals.html)	All
Media link list	Africa (target: Africa.html) America (target: Africa.html) Asia (target: Asia.html) Australia (target: Australia.html) Europe (target: Europe.html)	Destination.html
Media link list	Contact (target: contact.html)	AboutUs.html

We both decided the user types together by looking at any agency website. Also, we both did the site structure by using Visio